a) upon the cessation of the capacity of a provider, regardless of the form of this cessation, the provider of electronic communications networks or services or the provider of postal services have the obligation to send ANRCTI a report on the revenues achieved during the year or months of the year prior to cessation, including the month when they gained the capacity of a provider, as well as the turnover achieved in the months of the year during which this capacity ceased, excluding the month the capacity of a provider terminated, accompanied by copies of the synthetic balance sheets drawn up for the
