Abstract

The Telecommunications Regulatory Authority (TRA), represented by the Satellite Radio Monitoring Station (SRMS), is proposing a Memorandum of Collaboration with satellite monitoring stations in other countries. The Memorandum aims to strengthen cooperation in satellite monitoring and spectrum management through joint technical activities, expert visits, training, and the exchange of knowledge and experience. It also supports cooperation in addressing radio-frequency interference and sharing best practices. This initiative will help build stronger partnerships, improve technical capabilities, and enhance cooperation between satellite monitoring stations.
